base ball through the head. As for windows, enough of them are broken in a year to maintain a creditable base ball club. The ordinance is all right, but the enforcement of it isn't.

The Street Car and the Man.

The street cars have taken it into their heads that they will not stop for a man to get on or off. The man must take his legs and his arms and his life in his hands and jump for it. It may be that the street car treats the man this way in order to have more time to wait on the sidings and cool off. However this may be, the street car should know that the man who jumps on or off would stand a slim chance in a suit for damages against the company. Isn't a man's address.

Tresched there April 13, and was, as aforesaid, immediately unfurled over the aforesaid,

Meanwhile the Democratic hold-over Governor will serve out a term, or part of a term, for which he was not even a candidate, and the Republicans will be cheated out of an office to which they are honestly entitled. If West Virginia actually desires to repel settlers and capital, it has adopted the right sort of a course to do it.

There is gospel truth in these uncon plimentary lines. It is well for us to be well dosed with the truth some times,

Advertising Cities and States. It is the growing custom of cities and States that have something to offer to tell the world about themselves in print. The New Orleans Times-Democrat uses

Chattanooga as an example, and makes some sensible suggestions;

Nine years ago, Chattanooga, Tenn., Nine years ago, Chattanooga, Tenn., raised a large sum of money for the purpose of advertising its advantages. The mode the town talked about, induced capitalists and investors to go there and examine its advantages; and as it was built on solid foundations, these visits resulted in large investments and immigration. The results is seen to-day in a city of nearly 50,000 people where a nine years ago there were but 12,000, and possessing hundreds of new and profitable industries. Chattanooga has proved what great advantages come from advertising; and every Southern city will reap similar rewards from making known its resources. We have of them to expect too immediate returns from an investment of this kind. They expect to see capital and immigrants pouring in the very moment the appeal for them is made. Chattanooga has learnt better, has discovered that it takes some years for this advertising to have any effect, but that if the advantage of a town are really all it claims it need have no fear that capital will not ultimately find it and build it up. Chattanooga was one of the first of Southern clibs to advertise: it is consequently one of the first to secure the benefits of advertisements.

We have done something of this kind n West Virginia. For the small amoun money expended we have covered State before the world as it never was placed before. We have had returns, too. But we-have not completed the work, nor have we realized all that we shall realize from the work aiready done.

Campaigns of this kind take time, money, persistent effort. The State itself must constant the state of the s take up the work so well begun by the work. people and make it lasting. The present generation will not see West Virginia generation will not see West Virginia which the beauty lies in artistic shape overstocked with people and capital.

If it be necessary for the unpire to surround himself, as it were, with ability isn't this necessity a severe commentary on some of the patrons of our national game?

Sullivan says Kiirain is no gentleman, and he will whip him for his lack of good breeding or die in the ring. Men must be taught to behave themselves, and Mr. Sullivan may be the coming reformer of manners.

Hon. William L. Wilson has begun in the Baltimore San a series of papers on Trusts and Monopolies. From Number 1 of the series it appears that the articles are to be supplementary to Mr. Cleve land's tariff message. FARHIONS IN JEWELRY.

Bright cut bangles are numbered with opular sorts in silver. All gold jewelry is more fashionab han previous in some years.

The past month has developed nothing radically new in jewelry. A pretty conceit likely to please the ladies is a silver sabot in which is set a plush cushion for pins. Round brooches are exceedingly popuar, although oblong and irregular forms find patrons. All gold scarf pins are finding many patrons. An approved style is a flower or other design in carved work.

The minature brooch, which has al-ready lound great favor, promises to be one of the leading styles in neck pins during the coming autumn and winter. Sooner or later, as a rule, the fashionable world is influenced by what the French people have and wear. Just now oxidized silver is to the front in gay Paris.

Bodkin pins, being easy to adjust, are conveniently used for holding the bon-net in place; consequently these are made with decorative heads in both silver and gold.

In fancy jewelry occur many such realistic pieces as a broach simulating in brilliants two bits joined in the centre by a horseshoe. Another device is that of two gold crops crossed in the centre and joined by a horseshoe.

Almost every collection of wedding presents among fashionable folk includes at least one punch bowl and liquor set. Many of these are composed of crystal with silver mounts. Naturally the grape figures frequently in the designs wrought upon the silver. Something New in Manimiles.

Many details, now for the first time made public, respecting certain of the mummies are extremely curious. The last toilet of some royal ladies of the Twenty-first dynasty was, for instance, most claborate, the wrinkles caused by the process of mummification being filled up with some kind of enamel, the skin colored with ochre, the cheeks and lips rouged and false eyes introduced under the shriveled and half-open lids, thus giving a horribly lifelike appearance to the faces, as shown in the autotype illustrations from Herr Brugsch's photographs.

Dh. B. T. Coppedos, of Verons, Mo., says he has sold a large quantity of Swift's Specific, and to a great many customers, and knows it to be most successfully used for maladies of the blood.

A Reporter Takes Lessons from a Coupl of Street Gamins. It was after the last Browns-Athletic game that a St. Louis Globe-Democrat re porter sat behind a couple of newsboys returning from the park. They kept up a steady flow of comment on the game, which might have been taken for Greek or Hebrew by those uninitiated into the language, peculiarly the property of the National pastime. The conversation ran something in this style. The boys will be called Dick and Jack for the sake of secretaries. STEPHEN MCCULLOUGH, Contractor and Builder.

Dick—Say, but Ferguson was yellow to-day. He trew de soup into de Browns every chance he got. He gave dat bloke what twirled for de Athletics both corners, while he made King split de oyster every time. He was dead rank on de bases, too.
Jack—Dat fellow Weyhing is a cute mug anyhow. He's got a good nut on him, and he knows where de Browns are weak. He was shooting a snake up dere at dem, and dey couldn't get within a mile of it.

Dick—I didn't see no snake. I thought dey came up dere as big as a balloon. Tip ONeill and McCarthy has rotten eyes, and when de bases was full, instead of lining it out just popped up baby flys which Lyons nabbed.

Jack—Lath was very old gold, too. Say, but dat's a dead fresh mug. But, den, he keeps the boys full of ginger, and so de gang don't mind his guif.

Dick—Lath's all right. He gives de gang on the other side the razzle duzzle, and when dey get to trowing de ball de jig is up. Once dey gets de rourme tax dey's done up.

Jack—Dat feller Fuller's a cuckoo. He cats'em up down dere at short, and Jack-Dat teller ruller's a cuckoo. He cats'em up down dere at short, and dey can't come too hot for him.
